Phoenicia-Cold Brook State Highway Will Be Cleared This Saturday

Traffic Will Not Be Detoured Over Bad Road Which Has Been Used During Working Days So Far This Season.

FLAGGING AT POINTS

Due To The Construction Cars Will Have To Be Flagged at Certain Points.

Through the efforts of Senator Arthur H. Wicks and Assemblyman J. Edward Conway, on petition of the residents in the vicinity of the Phoenicia-Cold Brook State highway, that road which has been closed to traffic during repairs, will be cleared by Saturday, and will remain open to traffic from then on. There will probably be places, said Assemblyman Conway this morning, where it will be necessary to flag the traffic, but the traffic will be able to use the main highway and will not be detoured over the bad road which has been used during working days so far.

The appeal and petition were sent to the Governor, senator, assemblyman and Highway Commissioner Brandt after repeated protests had been voiced to the closing of the main highway during the summer traffic, which means much in a financial way to people along and near the highway.

Yesterday Senator Wicks and Assemblyman Conway went to see Governor Lehman about the condition of the road and what might be done to allow the passage of traffic during construction and repairs. The governor was sympathetic and said he would cooperate in whatever way he could in the matter, after which he referred the two to Commissioner Brandt, who also offered to cooperate. He referred the law makers to District Engineer Bixby in Poughkeepsie. Mr. Bixby investigated the situation and announced that the road would be cleared Saturday and that henceforth traffic would be maintained while repairs were being made to the road. He said that due to the work that cars would have to be flagged at certain points, but that the road would be open for travel, and that the bad road which had been used until the present action would be closed as a detour to the main highway.

HARVARD SCIENTISTS MAKE NEW DISCOVERY

Cambridge, Mass., July 25 (AP)—The highest point yet reached by human signals, a "refracting region" 1,000 miles overhead, which reflects radio signals back to earth, has been discovered with Harvard instruments.

From 100 to 200 miles aloft is the ordinary height of the layers of air known to reflect radio waves. Previously the very greatest height of such layers has been about 500 miles.

But 1,000 miles is above the regions at which scientists ordinarily describe as the outer limits of the earth's atmosphere. It is not, however, outside the possibility of extreme rarification of air, and the Harvard discoveries may lead to a redefinition of the effective heights of the atmosphere.

The new heights are described by Harry R. Minno, Pao H. Wang and Paul B. King in a report sent to the British official scientific journal, Nature. They are detected on a revolving photographic drum. On this film an outgoing radio signal makes a black dot, and the echo coming back from the sky makes a fainter dot. The distance between the dots shows how far up the signal travelled.

ESCAPED PRISONER IS CAPTURED BY POLICE

New York, July 25 (AP)—Max R. Scheller, who escaped from the Riker's Island Prison today, was recaptured today by police in the Bronx. He was serving a year's sentence for practicing medicine without a license, following his removal as a physician at the Hart's Island Reformatory.

Scheller fled from Riker's Island because his life was in danger, he told the police. He had written letters protesting against conditions in the prison and that other prisoners, hearing of this, had threatened him on two occasions.

He asked to be put in solitary confinement and escaped only after this was refused, police said he told them.

Askin McCormick, commissioner of correction, questioned Scheller for half an hour and then announced the prisoner would be put in another prison "for the safety of the department." McCormick described Scheller as a trouble maker.

Modern Enchiridion

Boston, July 25 (AP)—Twenty years ago a German soldier marched away to war. He returned last week-end, broke in mind through years of forced labor in Siberian mines, to find himself a modern Enchiridion. For Ernst Erich, long officially dead, seemed his wife had remarried and taken away. He has been reunited with his aged mother and a 15-year-old daughter whom he had never seen.

Predict Passage Before Nightfall of County Government Reform Bills

Democratic Leaders Declare That at Least Three of the County Government Measures Awaiting Action Might Be Approved Today—Little Opposition. If Any, To Passage of the Bills, Says Senator Byrne.

SOUVENIR BOOKLET FOR BIG CELEBRATION HERE FRIDAY EVENING

The committee in charge of the celebration that will mark the turning over by the local TERA of the Kingston Municipal Auditorium to the city on Friday evening at the building is preparing a souvenir booklet to be distributed free to every one who attends the celebration Friday night. The booklet will contain articles by local residents and will be illustrated. The exercises which are free and open to the public will be held in the former old armory on Broadway that evening commencing at 7:45 o'clock with a band concert lasting until 8:15 o'clock when several brief addresses will be delivered followed by a program of entertainment arranged by Alderman Paul Zucca of the building committee of the common council.

Ulster Provisioners Play Host To 5,000 At Picnic And Field Day

The free luncheon at the U. P. A. picnic, at Hasbrouck Park Tuesday afternoon, was a huge success. By 1 o'clock there was approximately 5,000 people at the park. About 3,000 of this crowd were youngsters. When this same 3,000 kids had finished lunch the athletic contests began.

The first race on the program was a fifty foot run for the kiddies. The crowd gathered around as this first contest started. The gun was fired and they were off like a flash. Amid clouds of dust some were seen to fall by the wayside but of those that were left, the first to cross the line was Master George Guess of 79 German street. To him went the first prize. Second was Richard Scherer from Connelly, and third place went to Clarmory Bell of 31 Lindsay avenue.

For the second race the distance was doubled. The competitors were of slightly larger build. This race was captured by Master Vincent Brady of 142 Hooker street. Donald Ryan of 108 McEntee street was second. Miss Madeline Sessler crossed the line in third place to give the fair sex its first placement.

Next came the call for the skooter race entries. These young speed demons lined up as the crowd closed in. The winner flashed across the line amid great clouds of dust. He was Master Alfred Cecelia of 66 Crane street. Second came Walter Marquart of 72 Crane street and in third place was Conrad Wief of 28 Livingston street.

Following this demonstration of speed came the tricycle race. Once again the excitement was intense. The pace was a little faster in this exhibition and Master William Paulis of 98 Clinton avenue, with wild cheers ringing in his ears, crossed the tape just ahead of Master Raymond Kilmer of 197 Abel street. Third prize was earned by Harry Broadhead of 26 First avenue.

At this point the larger boys took the field and some serious races were contested.

The 100 yard dash came first, and was won by Mark Well of 28 Livingston street. In the time of 12 seconds flat, Charles Schoonmaker of 251 First avenue, was second and Charles Beck of 79 Abruzzo street took third.

The 220 was taken by Cliff Van Valkenburgh from the Boy Scout Camp, with second place going to Charles Beck. Mark Well came in third.

Cunningham of 459 Washington avenue annexed the 449 in the creditable time of 1:15. Charlton from

Want Two Judges Assigned to Albany

Members of the Albany County Bar Association have taken steps to have Judge Hill of the Appellate Division of supreme court assign at least two judges from some other district to Albany in October in order that work may be cleaned up there. Since the assignment of Judges McNamee and Bliss to the Appellate Division the Third District has been short of circuit judges. With the assignment of Judge John T. Longman to the Court of Appeals the situation has become more acute and Albany county lawyers are complaining that it is impossible to get cases to trial. A petition will be presented asking that two judges be brought to the district in October.

Albany, N. Y., July 25 (AP)—

Passage of county government reform legislation by the New York Senate before nightfall was predicted today by Democratic leaders.

Senator John J. Dunnigan, Democratic majority leader, and Senator William T. Byrne, chairman of the judiciary committee, both said after a conference that at least three of the county government measures awaiting action might be approved today.

"The judiciary committee reported on two more reform bills, the Wojtkowiak bill and the Kernon bill," Senator Byrne said he believed they might be passed along with the other three, whose passage was recommended by former Governor Alfred E. Smith as a compromise move to avert a controversy.

"I think it is possible that we will vote on county government reorganization today," Senator Dunnigan told newspapermen.

Senator Byrne said there was little opposition, if any, to passage of the Fearon bill, the Dunnigan bill and the Mastick bill. The latter two affect New York city and upstate, respectively, while the Fearon proposal combines the identical provisions of both bills into one affecting the entire state.

"We probably will pass at least these three bills," Senator Byrne said. "We may pass the other two."

LITTLE GLORIA VANDERBILT FORTUNE IN LITIGATION

New York, July 26 (AP)—Ten-year-old Gloria Vanderbilt and her millions—have involved three of America's socially famous families in litigation.

Surrogate Foley will begin hearings tomorrow in the case, started by the child's mother, Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, to get legal control of her and become co-guardian of her estate.

The case came into the open with the filing of "Interested persons" petitions by Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, the child's aunt, and Mrs. Laura Kilpatrick Morgan, Gloria's maternal grandmother. What their interest was, none would say.

Gloria inherited $2,500,000 from the elder Cornelius Vanderbilt of the estate through her father, Reginald C. Vanderbilt. This sum has grown to $2,875,017. The child recently inherited another million from the dowager Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt.

SENATOR WAGNER RETURNS FROM THE PACIFIC COAST

Newark, N. J., July 25 (AP)—Fatigued and worn-appearing U. S. Senator Robert Wagner, of New York, arrived at Newark airport today (at 8:15 a. m. E. D. T.) after an airplane trip from the Pacific coast where he acted as a federal mediator in the current maritime workers' strikes.

Expressing satisfaction over the present status of the west coast strikes, Wagner said, "I think the matter has been cleared up satisfactorily, and I think that the longshoremen's board recently formed by President Roosevelt will bring the difficulties to a satisfactory conclusion."

The senator left by car for his New York home to rest before returning to Washington for a brief stay, after which he plans a two weeks vacation in upper New York state.

SOBBY TRUCK UPSET NEAR WEST HURLEY

A Chevrolet truck owned by Saul Sobsey of 356 Washington avenue and driven by his brother, Julius Sobsey, skidded, turned completely around and then upset in the road just above the railroad bridge at West Hurley about five o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The truck was loaded with auto accessories and was being driven toward Kingston. Julius Sobsey was somewhat bruised, but outside of that the two men escaped without injury. Sheriff Saxe and Deputy Sheriff Vredenburg took charge of traffic until a wrecker could reach the scene and right the truck.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, July 25 (AP)—The position of the treasury July 23 was: Receipts $19,917,214.49; expenditures $17,197,426.69; balance $2,719,787.80. Receipts for the month $144,461,411.14. Receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1) $178,275,297.23; expenditures $293,712,540.81 (including $199,255.37 of emergency expenditures); excess of expenditures $215,427,243.48; gold assets $7,594,325.275.97.

Andy Payne Wins

Oklahoma City, July 25 (AP)—Andy Payne, who raced across the nation in 1928 to win $25,000 in C. C. Pyle's "Banton Derby," has won another race this time a political one. In the Democratic run-off primary yesterday he defeated Gus Pool, incumbent, in the race for nomination for supreme court clerk.

Legislative Probe of The Ossining Bus Crash Proposed By Blumberg

Resolution Calls Attention to the Fact That Governor Vetted Goodrich Bill, "Which Might Have Prevented Accident."

JOINT COMMITTEE

Senator Blumberg's Resolution Proposes Appointment of 3 Senators and 4 Assemblymen.

Albany, N. Y., July 25 (AP)—A legislative investigation of the bus crash at Ossining Sunday which cost 18 lives was proposed today by Senator George Blumberg, Brooklyn Republican.

Blumberg introduced a resolution proposing the appointment of three senators and four assemblymen.

If this resolution is adopted, this joint committee will be directed:

1. To investigate causes of the accident, and determine the persons, firms or corporations involved.

2. To investigate the failure of any public officials to perform their duty.

3. To recommend any legislation to prevent such tragedies in the future.

The resolution called attention to the fact that Governor Lehman last May vetoed the Goodrich bill which proposed annual inspection of all motor vehicles. "This might have prevented the accident," the resolution said.

Faulty brakes were believed to have caused the bus to run away, with its 50 passengers, on an Ossining hill. It crashed, flaming, into a lumber yard and was destroyed.

Governor Vetted Bill

Governor Lehman vetoed the Goodrich bill because it called for inspection by private garages which he thought might have withheld certificates of approval until unreasonable repairs were made.

"It appears," the resolution said, "that the accident was due to inadequate equipment as required by the laws of this state, and that doubt exists concerning the ownership of the motor bus and the identity of those responsible."

The resolution cited provisions of law requiring proper equipment and directing the superintendent of State Police to order motor vehicle inspections, and continued:

"Complete authority to enforce the law is given to the commissioner of motor vehicles."

"This legislature at the regular session passed (the Goodrich) Assembly bill * * * requiring annual inspection of motor vehicles and making an appropriation of $15,000 to the Bureau of Motor Vehicles for this purpose."

"The enactment of this bill would have prohibited the operation of this motor bus without such inspection, and hence might have prevented this accident."

"The bill was vetoed by the Governor."

SEARCHERS FIND BABY ASLEEP IN CLUMP OF BUSHES

Cromwell, Conn., July 25 (AP)—Little Claire Bernson, 21 months old, who wandered into the woods near her home in search of her mother who was black-berrying late yesterday, was a real "babe in the woods."

She was found by searchers this morning asleep in a clump of bushes in swamp land into which she had gone. Little Claire was unharmed and only body scratches from brush tips and briar runner thorns were marks of her experience.

Dr. Walter Nelson, who examined the child after she had been carried home by her father, said she was none the worse for her night in the woods.

The search by state officers and some 200 townspeople for the child, with a pack of hounds, had been kept up all night after the baby's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Bernson, had reported her missing.

The family live on a remote side road and their house is in the woods. The child had been playing with two sisters in the afternoon and, eluding them, toddled down the road in search of her mother. Her sun suit was found in the road. It was not possible to trace just where she went into the swamp land in the night's darkness, but daylight made this easy. She was found by a group of boys and men who were heading through the undergrowth.

Nazis Make Violent Bid For Power In Austria; Fate of Dollfuss Unknown

Latest Nazi Outbreak In Austria Troubles Premier Mussolini

Believe Italy Holds Germany Responsible For Outbreaks In Austria—Italy May Take Stand And Desert Germany After Today's Uprising.

By The Associated Press

The attitude of Italy toward critical developments in Austria for several days has been a subject of grave concern throughout Europe. In many quarters it was believed Italy holds German Nazis responsible for many of Austria's troubles.

It was recalled that Premier Mussolini and Chancellor Hitler of Germany at their recent conference at Venice had come to an understanding that Austria was to be permitted to work out its own destiny.

Whether the Nazi actions in Austria will be construed a violation of that agreement was a question for which there was no immediate answer.

Equally pressing was the question of what Italy may decide to do in the light of recent developments, and whether the Italian government will place the responsibility for Austrian uprisings on the German government.

The Italian press in many instances reflecting the attitude of the government, recently has been inclined to hold the German government responsible for terrorism in Austria.

It was charged that explosives found their way to Austria from German sources, and the German government seemed unable or unwilling to exert its influence to control the protracted disorders in Austria.

"It is no secret that Chancellor Hitler promised Premier Mussolini at Venice to leave Austria alone," said the newspaper "La Sera" at Milan yesterday.

"We do not believe much time will elapse before Germany will be held responsible. It is known that Germany has only one friend in Europe (Italy)."

It seems certain that German leaders are working with the greatest fervor to lose this sole friend. "La Sera" and other newspapers have taken the attitude that either the German government does not wish to suppress Austrian terrorism, or is unable to do so. If it permits terrorist acts by Nazis the German government acts in bad faith, several newspapers have asserted. If it is unable to control such excesses it confesses the Nazi movement cannot live up to its principles, "La Sera" added.

Developments in Austria upset Premier Mussolini's plans to hear about Austria's internal troubles from Chancellor Dollfuss at a proposed meeting between them at Riccione, Italy.

Chancellor Dollfuss had planned to fly to Riccione Friday. His wife and two children already are there. Mussolini had expected to bring officials of the Italian foreign office to Riccione, and it was believed that Austria's relations with all her neighbors, particularly Germany, were to have been discussed.

HURRICANE FORCE WINDS STRIKE GALVESTON ISLAND

Houston, Tex., July 25 (AP)—Winds of hurricane force struck the western end of Galveston Island and at Freeport at 3 a. m. today, both points reporting a wind velocity of 75 miles an hour.

As the Gales shrieked in from the gulf at Freeport, the tide was running eight and one-half feet on a coastline where there is little or no tide. It surged over a small island on which the coast guard station is located, but the station itself, built securely on piles, was believed safe.

ENGELBERT DOLLFUSS

Germany Surprised at Events In Austria And Has No Official Word

Nazi Officials Away So No Statement Is Made—Press Officer Says "We Will Not Shed Tears For Dollfuss."

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER Associated Press Foreign Staff

Berlin, July 25 (AP)—The propaganda ministry and the foreign office of Germany appeared greatly surprised today when they were told of events in Austria.

"This is the first I have heard of it," said the press officer on duty in the propaganda ministry. "You can imagine, of course—assuming the news to be accurate—that we will not shed any tears for Dollfuss."

"At any rate, you newspapermen cannot complain that the Nazis are not giving you enough to write about. The 'bad' Nazis apparently always see to it that something is stirring somewhere."

At the foreign office, the press liaison officer in charge commented: "I regard the news as absolutely nonsense. Some Nazis, or possibly even someone else, apparently somehow got hold of the Vienna radio station and sent out the news about an alleged Nazi putsch."

Foreign Office Comment

Another high official of the German foreign office commented: "The Austrian event simply demonstrates the correctness of our German contention that Dollfuss cannot maintain himself in power, that conditions have become unbearable, that chaos prevails in Austria, and that a struggle of all against all has been going on."

"Until we have more definite news, it is difficult to make any statement beyond that."

In the absence of Chancellor Hitler, Vice-Chancellor Franz von Papen and other high officials from the city on their vacations, both ministers said they doubted whether an official comment would be made soon if at all.

The Austrian legation received word from Vienna that there was no talk of either Chancellor Dollfuss or his cabinet resigning and that the news of the "capture" of Dollfuss was a fake.

When the legation asked Vienna for an explanation of the Heimwehr appearing with machine guns before Dollfuss' offices in Vienna, the authorities replied:

"That was done by the Heimwehr for the protection of the Dollfuss government."

Two Republicans In New Deal Attack

Washington, July 25 (AP)—Two prominent Republicans looked at the new deal from different angles today and found it wanting.

Senator Nye, North Dakota, Independent, discerned a waxing sentiment in the northwest for a "third party" because, he said, the Democrats had not proved progressive enough in really helping the people in that area and the Republican high command was becoming more "reactionary."

Speaking from the regular Republican lines, Senator Hastings of Delaware, said in a national radio address last night that "the objective of the Roosevelt revolutionists is to make their 'haphazard program permanent'."

Both agreed that the NRA had missed its mark.

Austrian Chancellor Is Believed Dead or Badly Wounded By His Captors

Loyal Fascist Heimwehr and Federal Troops Surround Chancellery Threatening Action If Officials Are Not Released.

"PUTSCH" LAUNCHED

Austrian Nazis Capture and Imprison Dollfuss and Cabinet in Chancellery as Hostages.

Vienna, July 25 (AP)—Excited civilians rushed out of the chancellery at 5:45 p. m. today crying "Dollfuss is dead!" Obviously their statement could not be verified by the anxious group outside the door.

Vienna, July 25 (AP)—A police commissioner today entered the federal chancellery and returned to say that Chancellor Dollfuss had been seriously wounded in a fight within the building and had resigned from his post.

Dollfuss was imprisoned in the federal chancellery by the Nazis. The police commissioner said he was wounded in fighting which went on inside the building.

The loyal Fascist Heimwehr and federal troops poured into the Ballhausplatz—the great square in front of the chancellery—as conflicting reports circulated throughout the city.

The battling Prince Ernst von Starheimberg, head of the Heimwehr and vice chancellor of Austria, escaped from the Nazi captors and immediately organized his own counter-attack. A diplomat in touch with him declared the prince had sent an ultimatum to the Nazi leaders of the troops declaring that Dollfuss and the other cabinet ministers held captive must be released at once or the army would attack the chancellery.

Many Affrays

In the four hours from the time the "Putsch" was launched, Vienna had experienced one-half hour of machine-gun fighting and several pistol affrays.

One of the most widely accepted stories of how the Nazis captured Dollfuss was as follows: He, with Emil Fey, minister of public security, and Minister Karwinsky were captured by Nazis disguised as Heimwehr and army officers who forced their way into the chancellery's office. Previously, 300 similarly disguised Nazis had forced their way into the Heimwehr barracks in the Seventh district, seizing machine guns, rifles and a large quantity of ammunition. Then the main group proceeded to the chancellery, overpowering two sentries who remained outside and barricading the doors.

Three Held Prisoners

This report further declared that the three prisoners were held as hostages on the threats that they would be killed if the Heimwehr attacked the building.

It is known definitely that Fey appeared twice on the balcony of the building to speak to the officers outside. Following one of these appearances, the regular troops which had drawn up before the building, marched away.

Fey himself gave the express command for them to withdraw. His action was interpreted as perhaps being a part of the negotiations—ordered by the Nazis—to release the prisoners.

The police commissioner also said that Anton Rintelen, Austrian minister to Rome, will take over the chancellery. A Neusachter Storm Trooper, however, said he had come from President Miklas to announce that Dr. Kurt Schuschnigg, minister of justice and education, would take over the government and that all other reports were false. This threw the whole situation into confusion again.

It was certain only that the members of the Nazi Putsch held government members prisoners in the chancellery.

Give Ultimatum

Although, at Fey's command, soldiers withdrew from the Ballhausplatz, 30 army trucks carrying machine guns, trench mortars, and other equipment appeared on the square before the nearby Burgtheater. Two armored cars and several ambulances also were in readiness.

It was at this time that government leaders met in the back of the Nazis, gave the Putsch leaders 20 minutes to release their captives.

The political situation in Austria has for months past been one of potential danger. Early in the year, actual civil war broke out between the government and the Socialists who, at that time, controlled the municipal administration of Vienna, the capital.

Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss, the little head of the national government, has remained firmly in control throughout the period of bickering and warfare. His Fascist Heimwehr

Edward Schirick Dead Of Illness

Edward A. Schirick died early this afternoon at his home, 57 South Manor avenue, after a long illness. Mr. Schirick was a well known resident of Kingston and for 11 years had been in the employ of the Kingston National Bank, serving 14 of those years as secretary to Frank Coyle. Later he became associated with the corporation counsel's office of New York city, with headquarters in Kingston where he proved himself a capable and efficient worker, until stricken with the illness that later proved fatal. Mr. Schirick was a man of gentle and pleasing personality and made friends easily, and what is more important kept the friends that he made. He is survived by his wife, one son, George, two brothers, Valentine Schirick and Judge Harry E. Schirick, and two sisters, Mrs. George Dressel and Mrs. Peter J. Crounch, all of Kingston. Praterally he was a member of Kingston Lodge, No. 10, F. & A. M., and of Charles DeWitt Council, Junior Order of the American Mechanics. For years he had been a member of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 25 (AP)—Most financial markets continued to grope through hazy weather today and trends were generally indecisive.

Stocks rallied mildly after the opening, then encountered more of feelings which unsettled the list and caused numerous issues to new lows for the year. Active selling did not last long, however, and various leaders again displayed resistance. The price pattern was exceptionally spotty throughout, some noticeably so, before settling in the firmness of others.

Shares of J. I. Case got back more than 2 points of its yesterday's 5-point decline. Others, up fractionally, to around a point or so, included Sterling Products, Consolidated Gas, United Aircraft, Chrysler, du Pont, California Packing, Bethlehem Steel, Douglas Aircraft, American Smelting, U. S. Smelting, Cerro de Pasco, Sears Roebuck, American Sugar Refining and Westinghouse. Such issues as American Telephone, Allied Chemical, American Commercial Alcohol, N. Y. Central and General Motors were untouched.

Union Pacific dropped 2 points and Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio sagged. Santa Fe improved. Aside from American Sugar, members of this group were rather heavy. American Beet Sugar preferred lost 3 points, while South Puerto Rico, Great Western and Cuban American Sugar were down a point or more. International Telephone, Western Union, General Motors and Sears Roebuck reached new 1934 bottoms before recovering.

Quotations given by Parker, McElroy & Co., members, N. Y. Stock Exchange, 120 Broadway, New York city; branch office, 282 Wall street.

Quotations at 2 o'clock.

700 Are Dead As Heat Wave Continues In Mid-West Section

(By The Associated Press)
The sun stage attained its most severe proportions of the summer today, driving the number of deaths far above the 700 mark and the drought damage toward the billions of dollars.

For the first time since the scourge started, however, early relief was predicted for the midwest, the furnace of the nation, while the east and Pacific coast enjoyed comparative cool.

The government's efforts to bring relief to the drought sections by buying stricken herds and shipping them to slaughter or southern pastures struck a snag.

The farm administration announced that the Chicago stock yards strike and congestion at other livestock centers has forced temporary suspension of purchases.

Heat deaths, piling up at times at the rate of 10 an hour, stood at 719 last night, and mounted today to 783.

The highest official temperature recorded yesterday was 117 at Vinita, Okla. Chicago suffered under the most oppressive heat ever recorded there as the mercury soared to 105 yesterday—two degrees higher than the previous all-time record, set in 1903.

In New York city, where four persons have died from the heat, showers fell before dawn today and the weather bureau said the Atlantic seaboard would be favored with cooler temperatures.

More than an inch of rain fell in some sections of Minnesota. Oklahoma was told of a possibility of light showers, and cooler temperatures were predicted for Nebraska, Ohio, Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois, South Dakota, Missouri and Wyoming.

Fearon Proposes New Legislation To Speed Distribution Of Milk

Albany, N. Y., July 25 (AP)—Senator George R. Fearon today proposed new legislation to speed up the distribution of large quantities of free milk to needy mothers and children with the state's $1,500,000 fund.

The Republican minority leader went into conference with Governor Lehman and Alfred Schoellkopf, head of the state's emergency relief administration, to decide what steps could be taken "to make this milk distribution just as broad as possible."

"We want to cut out the red tape," Fearon said. He introduced the original free milk bill at the last session of the legislature.

Amendments drafted by Charles Poletti, the governor's counsel, propose the following changes:

1—Include needy nursing mothers in the free milk list.

2—Permit public welfare commissioners to purchase milk direct from dealers and have it delivered into the homes of the needy.

3—Permit names of needy to be added to the free milk lists at the recommendation of public school teachers who know the family conditions.

The amendments will be introduced just as soon as a message is received from the governor," Fearon said.

He said the work of free milk distribution "is just getting started," and he had no estimate yet of the number of children benefited.

Bus Case Adjourned For Another Hearing

Several Witnesses Heard But Adjournment Is Taken Without Voting on Manslaughter Charges—Death Toll Reaches 19.

White Plains, N. Y., July 25 (AP)—The Westchester summer grand jury this afternoon took up the Ossining bus wreck, fatal to 19 Brooklyn persons last Sunday, and without voting on manslaughter charges adjourned the case for another hearing, perhaps tomorrow.

The jurors heard several witnesses called by District Attorney Frank H. Corne, including Nicholas De Marco, one of the owners of the ill-starred bus and manager of the garage where it was maintained. De Marco signed a waiver of immunity from his testimony before telling of his responsibility for the condition of the bus.

While the story of the wreck, which has started movements for a joint legislative investigation of the fatality and for stricter regulation of motor busses, was being laid before the grand jurors body the 19th victim of the crash and fire died in Ossining Hospital. He was Joseph Corcoran, 62, of 666 Portland avenue, Brooklyn, who succumbed to burns and injuries.

Mr. Corne this afternoon ordered the arrest of three employees of the Rialto bus garage as material witnesses and arranged to have them committed to the county jail until the next hearing before the grand jury. They are mechanics who make repairs to the busses.

Strike Leaders May Cause Bigger Tie-Up

By The Associated Press

Strike leaders threatened an even greater tie-up today at the Chicago stockyards, where livestock died of thirst and starvation, where government inspectors roamed through the pens pending merciful bullets into beasts no longer fit for human consumption.

The San Francisco Examiner reported an "overwhelming vote" by Pacific coast longshoremen in favor of arbitration. At Seattle, the crews of two tugs were stoned.

The threatened strike of 30,000 aluminum workers was averted at Pittsburgh when representatives of the Aluminum Company of America and employees adjourned until August 3 their conference over "full recognition" of an American Federation of Labor union.

New suggestions for arbitration were to be presented today by truck owners and striking drivers in Minneapolis.

Two strikers were seriously hurt and nearly a score of other persons injured in a clash between workers and pickets outside the Philadelphia plant of the Gulf Refining Company.

The southland's army of strikers passed the 30,000 total with the recruiting of approximately 400 hostelry workers at the Holston Manufacturing Company's plant, Knoxville, Tenn.

Union spokesmen for 1,500 striking tugmen on the Great Lakes voted unanimously to continue their strike for an 8-hour day.

In the strike of 5,800 employees of the Anaconda Copper Mining Company, quiet succeeded fires, dynamite and stonings at Butte.

Strike Continues To Paralyze Stockyards

Chicago, July 25 (AP)—Fighting against thirst and hunger, 70,000 drought weakened cattle went without feed again today as the strike of 800 union handlers continued to paralyze the union stockyards.

The arrival of 78 cars of hogs, three cars of cattle and 23 cars of sheep, all billed directly to packing houses, added to the seriousness of the situation.

Only a few of the cattle were fed yesterday, although most of them received an adequate supply of water. This morning white collared commission men, driving hay trucks, passed along the net work of pens. Their efforts, however, reached only a small part of the privately owned stock. By far the greater part of the cattle were the property of the federal government.

O. T. Henkle, general manager of the yards, said he had 35 feed wagons available and that the cattle would be fed. By mid-morning, however, there was little sign of activity in that direction.

Four hundred men, including strike breakers, housed in Pullman cars inside the yards, under police protection, were on duty.

A government official said the federal cattle had been watered and would continue to be as long as water was available. He said 6,000 head would be shipped to points in the south and east today if cars could be obtained.

However, there was only a limited force available for loading. The strikers said they would not interfere so long as strike breakers were not used.

Saugerties Store Was Burglarized

Another burglary has been reported in Saugerties. Some time Monday night or early Tuesday morning thieves broke into the millinery store of Miss Lillian McMillen on Partition street, and stole merchandise valued at $500. The loot consisted of women's silk bonnets and women's underwear. Entrance was obtained through a rear window in the store.

West Sign Bank.

Chairman Zucca and members of the Common Council committee in charge of the community dances being held at the Municipal Auditorium would very much appreciate the return of the large framed sign which was taken from the front of the building between 1 and 2 Monday afternoon. The sign advertised the dance that evening and also the one for next week.

Attorney Murray Says "No Determination"

Francis T. Murray, attorney for Mrs. Catherine Kilmann, states that Judge Schenck of Albany has made no determination in the matter between Mrs. Kilmann and the City of Kingston in relation to the facts of the case.

The only matter which was heard before Judge Schenck was the question of whether County Judge Traver had jurisdiction in signing an order to show cause, making the order returnable at special term of supreme court in less than the usual time. Judge Schenck held that the county court could not sign an order shortening the time in which the order to show cause was returnable.

Matthew V. Gault appeared specially and objected to the motion. An application had been made for a mandamus order to compel the city to condemn lands taken for reconstruction of the Boulevard. Mr. Murray stated today that he had not determined his next step, whether he would seek a new order or make application for an injunction issuing of an injunction order probably would delay the work.

Children Guests Of City Fire Department

With auto horns blowing and the sirens on the police motorcycles sounding at full blast the children of the Industrial Home on East Chester street were taken for an auto ride this morning to Highland as the guests of the members of the Kingston Paid Firemen's Association, who annually tender the children of the Home an outing. The children were taken for a ride as far as Highland and on returning were driven to Kingston Point where the annual picnic was held.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JULY 25, 1934.

THRASHERS' DINNERS

There are revolutionary times, and there is revolt in the country as well as in the city. Nothing is more epochal than the revolt of farm women against the time-honored custom of providing dinner for the thrashers. "Why should the thrashers expect to eat on us?" the embattled women are asking in many rural communities. And in some, they have already answered their own question with a quiet, firm negative. The thrashers can bring their own grub, just as any other bunch of workers would expect to do on any other job. "Now," the women say, "we won't have to stew around for days, wondering just when the thrashers are coming and how many there will be of them and how many meals they'll need. We won't have them eating us out of house and home when it starts raining, and they camp on us for days at a time. We won't wear ourselves out cooking for a mob with bottomless stomachs in hot weather. And if any women are going to worry about how they'll be fed, it will be their own women."

So that's that. The revolt hasn't gone far yet, but it is spreading. Regular thrashers might as well reconcile themselves to losing their ancient prerogative of high living in the busy season. Extra hands must face the prospect of forfeiting the most gorgeous feed of the year, with hot and cold meats, topless stacks of vegetables and hot biscuits, three kinds of pie and four kinds of cake, and every delicacy on the table filled with varied jams and preserves. It will be a terrible deprivation, but there will be fewer thrashers knocked out by the heat.

DESTRUCTIVE EMOTION

The general strike in San Francisco has recalled to mind a vivid story written in 1909 by Jack London on the same theme. London places his strike in 1939; it merely comes five years sooner.

The outlines are much the same—a great struggle between capital and labor, with each blaming the other; argument and hardship; troops called out; residents fleeing; violence developing. The chief difference is that in the fiction story the strikers were provisioned for several weeks when the strike started. In the actual situation they are mostly caught unprepared, and must suffer with the non-combatants. "A general strike is a cruel and immoral thing," wrote London of his imaginary case. "I never want to see another one. The brain of man should be capable of running industry in a more rational way. It should, indeed. And it is. The trouble is not with industrial brains but industrial hearts. Such wars, like military wars, are started and fought with emotion, not reason. Passion takes the place of thought. That is why so many of our economic and political problems remain unevolved, why life is so chaotic and uncivilized."

NEW DEAL IN BRAZIL

Brazil's new constitution contains some things which Americans would not think belonged in such a document. While some of its provisions are conservative, others are decidedly advanced. Immigration from all nations is to be restricted annually to 2 per cent of the number from each country who have entered Brazil during the past 10 years. All divorce is forbidden. Discrimination of public officials must have a majority of Brazilian nations in their membership.

Some of the more surprising provisions are that the state may take over any industrial enterprise "in the public interest"; that deposit banks may be required to submit to progressive nationalization; and that the maximum working week shall be six days and the maximum day eight hours in length. The constitution states also that no workers shall be less than 18 years of age at the time of hiring. That part of Brazil's new deal must be gratifying to feminists and to all who believe that women who wish to have a right to work and should receive adequate pay.

AMPHIBIAN AUTO

An experimental laboratory in Britain is said to have designed and built an amphibious automobile to carry passengers and freight over land and water in the more remote regions of the British Empire. The first two models of this contraption are equipped with different types of propellers to be tested for efficiency. The motor-driven type is to be used on the future amphibious constructed.

The "water-bus" is 25 feet long, 10 feet wide, and has seating capacity for 25 passengers. There are piloted and steering chairs for comfort. The vehicle has a 15-horsepower engine and is supposed to go 50 miles an hour. The Soviet experiments are immediately successful, but this one is worth watching. If it really works, it will be one more step in removing the terrors and perils of long-deadened Siberia and converting it to happily inhabited and cultivated land.

BUNDLE OF JOY

MARILYN's her name, but we have another we employ! It describes her perfectly! Bundle of joy!

There are sacks of shining gold. There are silks of rarest dye. There are bundles, which unrolled, Capture the eye.

Neatsfoot Oil

Neatsfoot oil is made by splitting the feet of cattle and boiling them over an open fire; or, commercially, in cylinders by superheated steam; then, swimming the oil off the mixture while still hot. The oil is allowed to stand for some days when part of it solidifies into a heavy grease. The lighter oil is then separated from this by filtering; this is known as "neatsfoot oil."

PERSONAL REMARKS

"WHAT are you wearing that blazer for? Suppose you think you look good in it? For your own information it makes you look like a monkey."

"Ah, there is a close family resemblance between us. Everybody says, you look just like your sister Evelyn. Now that you confirm it—"

"That's right. You think just because I'm your sister you can say anything. If it was that snubnose Ruth—"

"Jealous, I see. You can't help your nose. Let us pass it by in discreet silence. Its somewhat great length, not to say sharpness—"

"Mother, will you make Bruce stop making fun of me? I just can't stand it any more—"

"There, now Bruce, see what you've done. Driven your sister out of the room. She will go without her lunch now. It's too bad you can't let her alone."

"Listen ma, I never came near her but she gives me some sort of crack no matter who is listening. I'm going to pay her back with interest from now on, believe me. She's going to learn that when she opens on me I'll be ready to return the fire."

"But Bruce, you know how she is—And she is your sister."

Brothers and sisters quarrel a good deal during the teen age if they have not been trained to exclude all personalities from their talk. Family relationships remove restraint unless family tradition imposes it. And it ought to be imposed to the extent of making courtesy the abiding rule of conduct. Teach the children when they are little to say kind things about and to each other, until that behavior becomes a fixed habit.

Set the example. If father and mother make personal criticisms to the children before other people, if they speak without consideration for the feelings of others, the children will follow copy and make personal remarks in their turn. It all depends upon how the tradition is set.

Family manners help family relationships or hinder them. Bad manners weaken the morale and good manners strengthen it. Everybody feels crude thoughts and actions rising within him at times. Good manners people restrain themselves, maintain a smooth polished surface in the face of irritating happenings and so ride over the storms without provoking them into roaring tempests.

Anybody can be bad mannered. Bad manners are instinctive in most of us. The intelligent cultivated human being refuses to allow his baser instincts to dominate him and uses his manners as a defense against them. He maintains himself against his ignorance and his weakness by clinging to his high tradition.

Good manners have another use. It is impossible for ill-bred or angry people to hurt the well-mannered person. By refusing to acknowledge affront, by averting it by presenting a polished surface from which it slips off, the well-bred, well-mannered person goes about his daily occasions with less friction and far greater success than does the ill-bred one.

Teach the little children one of the first laws of good breeding: Make no personal remarks save in kindness and even then, be impersonal in tone and manner. Too close an approach is an offense in itself.

That Body of Yours

CALCIUM USEFUL TO BODY

It would seem that—calcium—is becoming more and more useful to the body as research workers and practicing physicians keep finding out more about it. That it thickens the blood making it more sticky and hence prevents excessive bleeding has been known for some time.

A few years ago, in giving chloride of lime to some patients to thicken the blood, it was found that some of the patients with varicose ulcers found that lime had healed the ulcers. Thus chloride of lime, 15 grains in syrup, two and three times a day is giving excellent results in various ulcers. In the past, of course, the use of chloride of lime or lactate of lime has been found useful.

Lime in the form of calcium chloride, calcium lactate and calcium gluconate has been very helpful in heart disease.

And now Dr. E. Zappel, Leipzig, tells of the beneficial effects of calcium in the treatment of pneumonia. He finds that it has a stimulating influence on that part of the nervous system controlling the organs of the chest and abdomen; it helps to prevent inflammation; helps coagulate or thicken the blood; reduces the irritation of the brain covering, and has a strengthening effect upon the heart very similar to digitalis (the great heart stimulant).

Dr. Zappel used a 20 percent solution of calcium gluconate in doses of about a teaspoonful to a tablespoonful three times a day according to the seriousness or severity of the case. It was given into the veins or by hypodermic injection into the muscles. As a rule the treatment was continued until the fever had completely disappeared.

In bronchitis due to influenza and in pleurisy, the lime helps to prevent inflammation and to prevent also the formation of fluid in the pleura or covering of the lungs.

Now while milk and fruits are good sources of lime and it would be wise for us all to take more milk and fruits, nevertheless the actual injection of lime into the system or taking it by mouth means much faster and more powerful effects of the lime in your system.

Insanitary, Unsanitary

Insanitary is the preferred form although unsanitary also is found in most dictionaries. This is but one of many instances (such as inactive, inapt, incapable) in which we are giving way to in- as a prefix meaning not.

Synopsis of preceding installments: Jerry, the nephew of Joe Middleton, is a young man who is a member of the Chicago Police. He is a detective and is a member of the Chicago Police. He is a detective and is a member of the Chicago Police. He is a detective and is a member of the Chicago Police.

INSTALLMENT 25.
Saturday morning Jerry went to work as usual. He and Peter had decided on a plan of action which called for no disturbance of her general routine at least for the present.

They had arranged to have lunch with Harriet Wilson at noon and during the afternoon, which Jerry had free on Saturday, they contemplated high adventure. Peter had proposed and Jerry agreed, that the first step must be a thorough investigation of the deserted steel mill.

Jerry was so gay about the office Saturday morning that Joe Middleton thought she must have decided to accept.

"So you've come to your senses at last," Joe said. "I didn't think you would be so silly as to turn down my rather generous offer. How about a little kiss to seal the contract?"

"Don't!" Jerry said. "Don't touch me!"

"Now listen, Jerry," Joe warned her. "You must not be too high-hat with Sugar Papa. Why should I have a kiss? Why can't I pick one very small flower when I'm burying the whole garden?"

"Don't be too sure you're burying the garden," Jerry snapped.

"Jerry, there has been many a countless who would have gladly tossed her ancestral estates into the English channel just for a kind word from Joe Middleton. I remember once when I was stopping at the Ritz in Paris and had engaged an entire floor—"

"Please don't expect me to believe any more of your tall stories, Joe."

"Take a letter," Joe said, changing his demeanor as he might have changed from a tuxedo to a tailcoat. He was now very much the busy executive.

Jerry held her pencil in readiness, waiting.

"Miss Jerry Hartford, Middleton Radio Company, Chicago. Dear Miss Hartford: You have the most beautiful eyes. You have the most delectable little nose faintly snubbed, and sprinkled over the bridge with a constellation of infinitesimal freckles."

"I won't take another word," Jerry pouted.

"Oh, you won't!" said Joe. "I rather think you will, Miss Hartford. After all, it is part of your work as my secretary to take any letters I care to dictate. New paragraph—"

"There is a saucy, sweet defiance in the lift of your chin which keeps me awake at night, drives me to drink, makes me gamble sums of money I can't afford on the ponies and is swiftly and surely preparing me for a nice little room in a psychopathic hospital."

"You have everything, Miss Hartford, and I use that word with circumspection."

"That has been said far enough," Jerry said with a start. Miss Hartford, New Hartford, New Hartford—

"I have promised you a house, a trust fund and everything else your capricious little head desires in return for the thing that you call love. I have promised you that I will be true to you for the rest of my life. I have promised you that I will be true to you for the rest of my life. I have promised you that I will be true to you for the rest of my life."

"You are now being rather closely shadowed by private detectives. All of your movements are known to me and are reported to me hourly."

"You know too much about my life for your own good. You are hoping to trap me and expose me."

"Perhaps you think all this is very amusing. Possibly you are under the impression that you can play and fire and not be burned."

Jerry looked out of the window of her office down upon the roofs and streets of Chicago and upon the narrow, sluggish river, where just now a big freighter, pulled by a little tug, was being pulled beneath successive bascule bridges.

And suddenly, noticing the criss-cross structure of the streets bound by the river and lake and L tracks, she thought of the city as a spider web in which she was inextricably caught.

Was she dragging Peter into the same web with her? Or could be with his superior strength and intelligence free them both from the dangerous strands?

Jerry trembled to think what might happen when the two met. Still Peter would be too sensible to call Joe's hand now. He would wait until they had made their little investigation at the steel mill and had held a conference of war with Harriet Wilson at lunch that noon.

He tore the leaves containing the shorthand notes . . . From the Book, Touching a Flame to Them From His Cigar Lighter.

But they must be terribly careful now. Jerry was thankful to Joe for letting her know she was being shadowed. They would have to out-trick the private detectives at every turn.

How slowly the minutes dragged. Jerry wondered why Joe did not leave his office. Was it possible that he knew about Peter Baird, and knew that he was coming to call for her at noon?

Certainly Joe could not know of their long conversation in the apartment the night before. He might have a man follow her to the airport. He might know of Peter Baird's arrival. But how could he know of the plans they had made to visit the steel mill?

Jerry was right in supposing Joe had only guessed that a movement was on foot to trap him. The detective had tried, but failed, to discover a vantage point from which to overhear the conversation at the apartment.

And so Joe did not know that Peter Baird was coming, and he left at 11:45 much to Jerry's relief, leaving orders with Harriet Wilson not to be so disturbed over the weekend.

When he was gone Jerry called Harriet into her office and told her of the new threat.

"And do you know he is having me shadowed?" Jerry said. "We must be desperately careful this noon. I feel that right here in this office . . ."

"Shhhhh!" Harriet warned. She

Today, however, the cab was waiting at the lower door, and they were all certain that the ruse had worked. But a moment after the cab pulled away a big, black sedan swung out from behind one of the pillars and, keeping about 200 feet behind, followed them through the dark.

Peter noticed it first, and leaning forward whispered to the driver of the cab who shot them forward through the twisting traffic until Jerry was certain that any moment they would alight to their deaths.

At Michigan avenue the driver turned north to cross the river on the under level of the Michigan avenue bridge. But just at that moment the bridge began to rise and the gate descended.

"Step on it!" Peter ordered, and the cab went hurtling up the gently sloping pavement of the opening bridge.

clipped to the office door and pulled in open quickly. Outside a young man, whom Joe had added to the staff only three days before, was leaning over to pick up a paper which had blown to the door.

"I want you to take a message to our retail store on Madison Street," Harriet said. "And don't return without an answer. If you know what is good for you."

Harriet scribbled an important message asking the number of radius of a certain design in steel at the store, sealed it in an envelope and walked as far as the elevator with the young man, giving him ridiculously explicit instructions. Then she returned to Jerry.

"Don't worry, Jerry. If we aren't more intelligent than a lot of private detectives we deserve to be caught. We'll slip out the back way, where I will have a cab waiting, and lose them in ten minutes."

"Better than that," Jerry suggested, "why not leave the building at the lower level under Wacker Drive. We could lose Sherlock Holmes, Philo Vance and the whole Chicago force in that dark cavern."

"You have got a head on your shoulders, haven't you?" Harriet admitted with grudging admiration.

Peter showed up a few minutes later, and he and Harriet were friends on the spot. She liked his honest and unaffected good humor, and he liked her brusque, pointed sarcasm. Jerry thought she couldn't have found two such confederates elsewhere if she had combed the entire world.

Harriet went to a pay phone at the end of the hall to order the cab fearing that the office wires might be tapped.

Then, after they had waited the few minutes they thought necessary, they went to the freight elevator, instead of any one of the passenger elevators, and down to the lower level.

The lower level of Wacker Drive in Chicago (if you have never been there) is probably the most perfect spot in Chicago for the safe execution of a major crime. Paralleling the river for a number of blocks, west of Michigan avenue, this dark, dank thoroughfare, set at frequent intervals with huge cement piles supporting alleys and other highways over which roll trucks and autos.

And yet in any number of descending alleys and other out of the way corners a murder could be perpetrated and not discovered for many minutes or even hours.

Jerry never stepped out of the building into this dark, tunnel-like street without a shiver.

Today, however, the cab was waiting at the lower door, and they were all certain that the ruse had worked. But a moment after the cab pulled away a big, black sedan swung out from behind one of the pillars and, keeping about 200 feet behind, followed them through the dark.

Peter noticed it first, and leaning forward whispered to the driver of the cab who shot them forward through the twisting traffic until Jerry was certain that any moment they would alight to their deaths.

Germany's New Foreign Policy Is Interpreted In Many Ways

(Copyright, 1934, By Consolidated, Inc. or its Name. Both the British News Features.)

Berlin, July 25.—The veering of Germany's foreign policy toward new efforts at conciliation with France may be interpreted in a variety of ways. The implications involved in some of these interpretations are extensive.

The first interpretation which observers are inclined to adopt is that it indicates the severe internal strain under which the present German regime is working, and the need that is felt by the Nazi leaders for foreign sympathies.

The economic distress in Germany is considerable and there is grave danger of a food shortage. This means that resort will have to be had to large-scale importations of food products, and in order to obtain them it will be necessary for Germany to find foreign credits.

Such credits would be hard enough to get in the best conditions; they would be almost impossible in an atmosphere of international tension.

Another tempting explanation is that Germany is fishing for sympathy in England and in Italy. It has been observed repeatedly since the war—and the explanation is obvious—that each time Germany has attempted a reconciliation with France as the best way out of her difficulties, the British and Italian governments have displayed great friendliness toward Berlin.

A Franco-German rapprochement is not at heart desired either in London or in Rome. Both the British and the Italians consider that their own safety depends on keeping France and Germany divided, and when any prospect of a coalition between them presents itself, they can be counted on to intervene.

A third interpretation is that the eagerness to make peace with France marks the ascendancy of conservative elements in the German government. It is the big industrialists in both Germany and France who are most anxious for an understanding. This may sound paradoxical to those who, taking only surface indications into account, have been accustomed to think that it was the liberal and Socialist elements in the two countries who most desired cooperation.

It is, however, an obvious fact that an economic union between France and Germany would create, in the heart of Europe, a money market which would be a menace to the United States, and practically self-supporting, except for a few raw materials such as copper, oil and cotton. Its military force would be greater than that of the rest of Europe combined, and its manufacturing potentialities would be such that naval supremacy could be attained without great effort. Such a union would mean that France, Germany and Belgium combined could compete successfully in world markets against either England or the United States, whereas in their present divided condition they are severely handicapped.

If the German industrial factions maintain their grip on German policy, and if the French industrialists also keep their hands off, the result will be a strong economic union between the two countries, and the prospect of a peaceful future for Europe will be greatly enhanced.

PRESENTING THE WIDE WORLD IN PICTURES

Copyright 1934, Wide World Photos, Inc.

"WHATEVER HE DID, HE WAS MY SON": The father of the bandit, John Dillinger, Sr., in Chicago after a trip made from his home in Mooresville, Ind., in a local undertaker's hearse, claims the body of his son for burial in Indianapolis beside his mother.

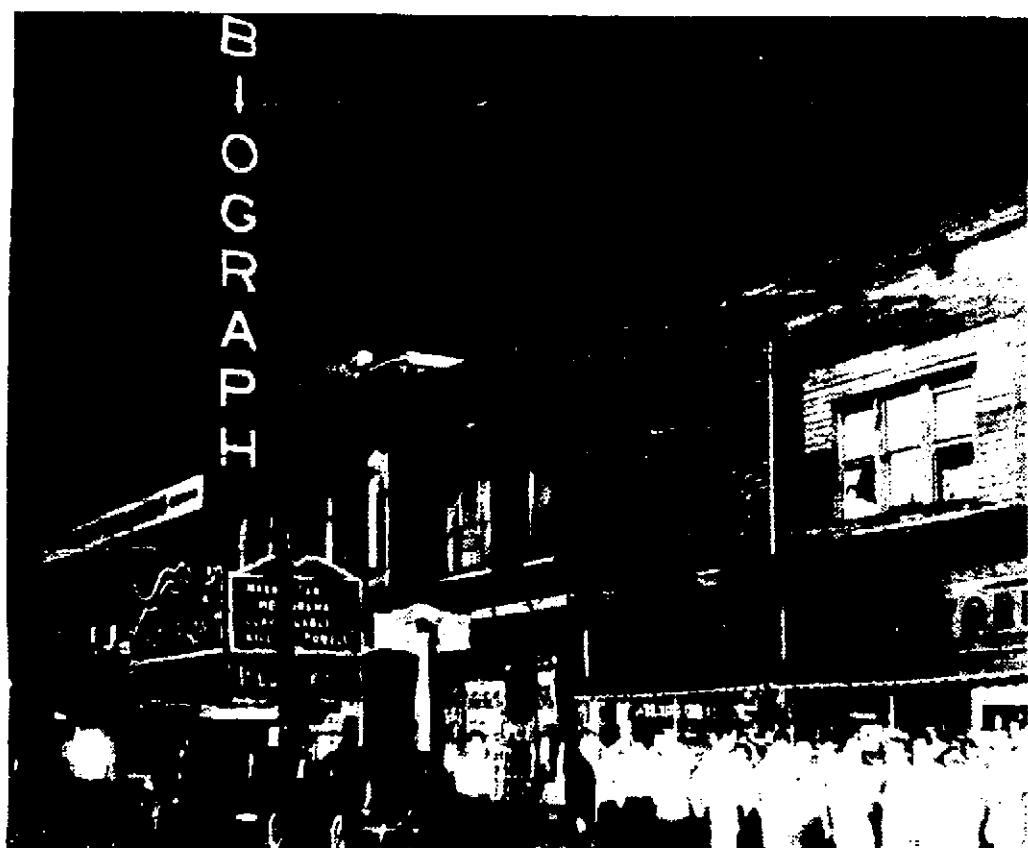

THE GUN THAT FAILED DILLINGER: The 37-caliber automatic which the gangster tried to use when he found he was surrounded by Federal agents outside a Chicago motion picture theatre and which was found in his hand when he was shot by one of the officers.

THREE RELICS OF DILLINGER'S LAST STAND: The straw hat he was wearing when he came out of the Chicago moving picture theatre to which the Federal agents traced him, a cigar which he was about to light when he was shot by the officers, and the spectacles which he used to alter his appearance.

THE MAN WHO ENDED DILLINGER'S CAREER: Melvin H. Purvis, 31-year-old chief of the Chicago Federal Bureau of Investigation and former lawyer, who, acting on a tip reported to have been furnished by a woman, traced the gangster to the Chicago moving picture theatre.

THE END OF THE DILLINGER TRAIL: The moving picture theatre in Chicago outside which seventeen Federal agents and five East Chicago policemen waited for two hours for the signal from Agent Purvis which brought an end to the career of one of the most desperate criminals the country has ever known.

THE END OF THE CHAPTER: John Dillinger lies in the morgue in Chicago fourteen months and five days after his first hold-up, the robbery of the Daleville (Ind.) Commercial Bank. His hair and moustache had been dyed a deep black, and a scar on his cheek entirely obliterated by surgery.

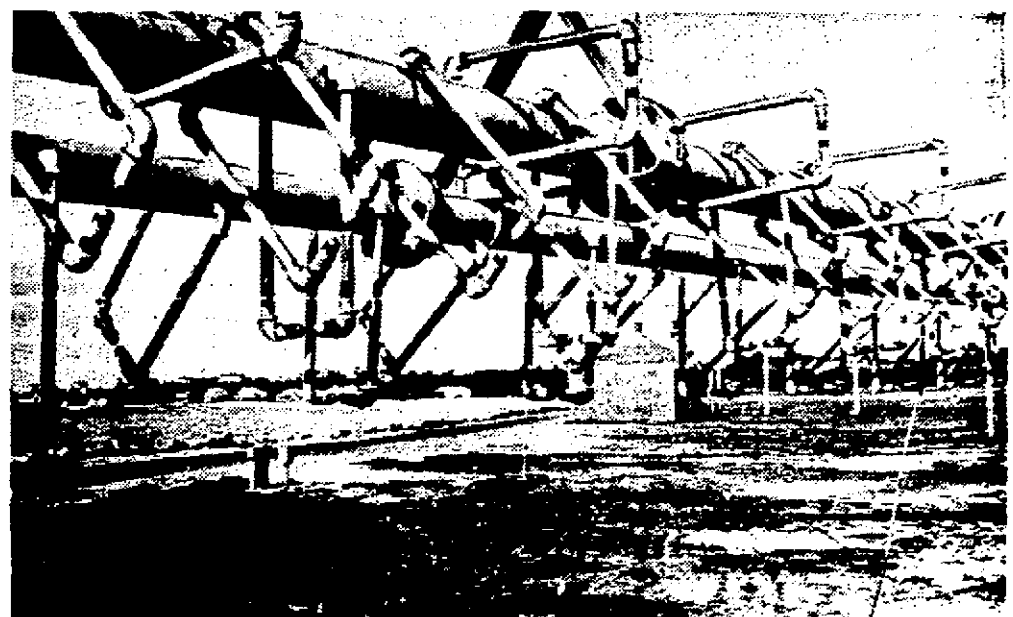

FAMINE CONDITIONS ON A FARM IN MISSOURI: Soil parched by the sun after weeks without rain, yields a famine crop of potatoes in one of the states of the immense area in the Middle West recommended for designation as an emergency drought relief area following an investigation by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

GREAT BRITAIN'S RACING MOTORIST LISTENS TO HIS SENTENCE: Kaye Don, convicted of the manslaughter of his mechanic Francis Taylor in a practice run before the automobile races on the Isle of Man, is sentenced to four months in jail by the court sitting at Douglas.

THE NEW "FIRST LADY" OF NORTH DAKOTA: Mrs. Ole Olson, the wife of the acting Governor of the state, and mother of nine children, with her youngest, Metta Marilyn, 5½ months old, who has announced her intention of staying on the family farm at New Rockford.

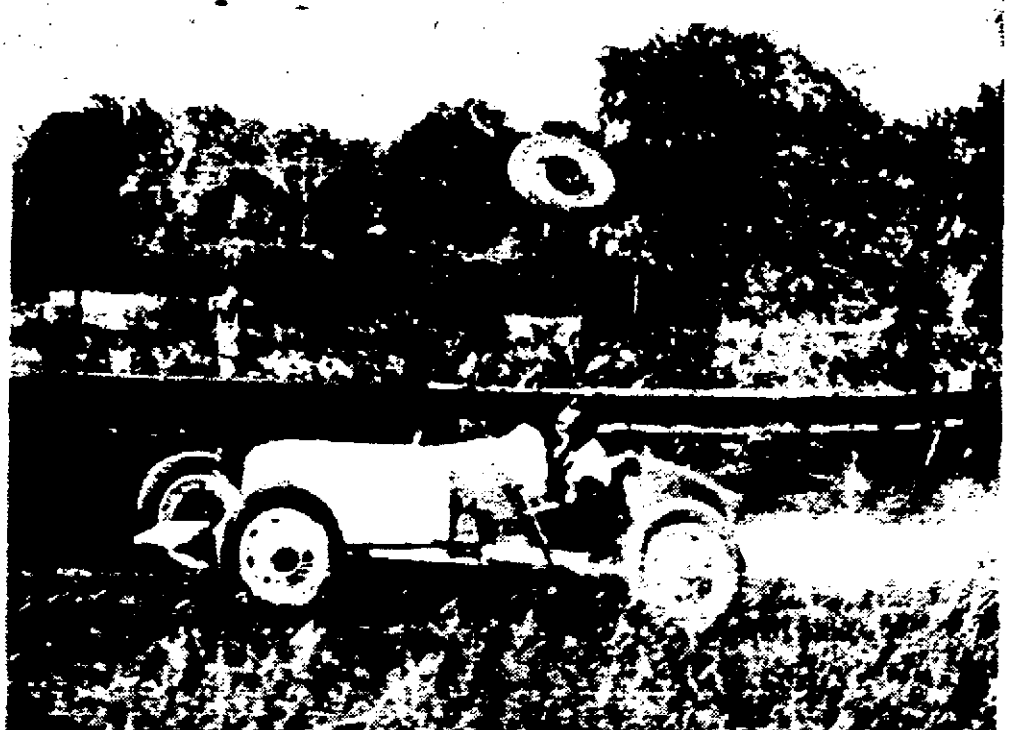

TO REDUCE THE HAZARD OF LANDING AIRCRAFT DURING FOG: An apparatus installed at Round Hill, Mass., by Henry G. Houghton, Jr., of the research staff of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, which creates a chemical curtain which strains fog from the moving air.

NAVY'S AERIAL SQUADRON FLIES UP THE PACIFIC COAST: One of the twelve seaplanes in the massed flight from Southern California to Fairbanks, Alaska, arrives in Seattle, one of the stops on the long-distance trip being made to investigate flying conditions and problems in the area traversed.

MAY MEET THE PRESIDENT IN HAWAIIAN FISHING GROUNDS: A shark, whose body is streamlined to attain the maximum of speed in the water, comes up beside a fishing boat off the coast of the Islands where Mr. Roosevelt is spending part of his summer vacation.

At The Theatres

Today

Kingston: "Show the Works" With Ben Bernie and the Maestros. The orchestra is playing a back-ground of music with humor and a general air of laughing. The musical show is a very funny and useful fashion as it describes the struggle of entertainers in their efforts to get over with the public. Jack Oakie and Doris Bell are splendid work, but the clever Ben Bernie and the Maestros are the real stars. Several new and popular dance tunes will be found in the musical, and for those who want musical romances, this is a very good place to go.

Orpheum: "Bolero" and "Tracy Rides". George Raft is in a new picture adapted to his sleek talent is one of the reasons for what is called "Tracy Rides" is a Tom Tyler western melodrama. Broadway: "I Like It That Way" and "You Made Me Love You". The first double feature offering concerns a young man who spends most of his time keeping his younger sister out of harm's way, but he learns from her that his own girl, supposedly innocent as a field of daisies, is an entertainer in a gambling club. Gloria Stuart, Roger Pryor and Marian Marsh are in the cast. "You Made Me Love You" is just another love

Quilt and Cover Exhibit. A fine quilt and coverlet exhibit will be held at Hunter Memorial Hall on Thursday and Friday of this week in Ellenville. The exhibit will be for the benefit of Veteran's Memorial Hospital of Ellenville and is under the direction of Mrs. Roy Ball and Mrs. William L. Douglas, general chairman. Many beautiful quilts, both old and new, will be on exhibition. Also antiques. A small admission will be charged, and tea will be served afternoon and evening.

Milkmen Trim Clintonians; Win Industrial First Half

The Independent Milkmen and the Clintonians met yesterday afternoon at the Industrial League grounds to play the first half of the season. It was the first straight success for the Milkmen and the first reverse for the Clintonians who failed to capture a victory in the first round.

A sixth inning rally won the game for the Milkmen. The Clintonians were smacked for five hits, including a round trip blow by Jerome Hawkins, netted the Milkmen four runs and their margin of victory.

Emil Bock opposed Eyman and was hit hard in spots but managed to extricate himself out of several tight spots. The Clintonians bunched him around for nine safeties, reaching him for at least one hit in every frame, but were unable to do anything in the picture.

Ashtown, second sacker of the Clintonians, who has the distinction of being the only left handed key-stoner in these parts, cracked out a legitimate homer off Bock in the fifth inning to give the Milkmen their first two runs, after they had threatened seriously in three other frames. Ashtown's smash was a terrific line drive to right center, the ball rolling into Cornell street.

Heavy hitting featured the contest with three doubles, two triples and two homers being recorded by the two teams. Eyman's triple to left center in the sixth drove in the final Clintonian tally but the pitcher was nipped at the plate trying to stretch the hit into a homer.

The Milkmen picked up an unearned run in the first frame, added another in the fourth on successive two baggers by Messinger and Joyce. In the fifth a walk to Lenehan and Bill Thomas's three bagger to left produced the third run.

Dawkins opened the big sixth with a homer to right field, Tierney letting the ball get past him. Knight grounded out for the first out, but Messinger and Joyce slashed successive singles. Clarke lined a single to right center but Ballard let the ball get through his legs, two runs scoring, and Clarke pulling up at third from when he tallied on Emil Bock's second punt.

The second round of the schedule, with every team in the circuit strengthened by the addition of several outstanding players, will get under way this evening at the Athletic Field with a contest between the Herzog-Mohawks and Crystal Gardens. Ralphie Ellsworth or Jack Dodge will be the Crystal Garden pitching selection with Joey Hoffman behind the plate. The Herzog-Mohawk battery has not been announced. Bill Schwab will make his debut as umpire in chief for the second round.

Parmelee's Four-Hit Flaming Wins For Giants, Yanks Lose

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR., Associated Press Sports Writer.

From pennant winner and leading contender to just a couple of second division clubs—that summarizes the slumps of the Washington Senators and Pittsburgh Pirates.

Pittsburgh, which was expected to be in the midst of the current National League race with the Giants, Cubs and Cardinals, found itself near the bottom of the season's worst slump today after nine straight defeats. The Bucs struck a new low yesterday when they took a 3 to 0 beating from the Phillies, and dropped a point behind Boston into fifth place.

The Senators were in worse condition as they skidded off into the sixth notch in the American League standing for the second time within a week after a 4-1 defeat at the hands of the last-place White Sox.

The Giants snubbed the Cardinals' race toward the top of the National League on Roy Parmelee's four-hit pitching, winning 5 to 0, and the Tigers, in the American League,

Not All Improvements—R. Edgren

SPORTS through Edgren's EYES

By Robert Edgren

Movies Show One Side.

A new show of fight experts is being created all over the country by the "movie" industry. The old-time experts never had a chance to see a knockdown punch in slow motion; they didn't have the opportunity to see the fight over again if they wished to; and in several respects the moving pictures are a scientific improvement on the ring-side method of seeing a fight. People who have seen nothing but the films of a fight, however, pick up some peculiar impressions.

Several movie-going fight experts who have never met Primo Carnera, have never talked with him, have never seen him except on the screen when he was reeling around the ring under the stupefying effect of Max Baer's barroom wallop, have leaned upon the writer's chest and discoursed by the hour about the dumbness of the Italian giant.

It is sad but true that their impression of Mr. Carnera's intellect has been molded a bit by newspaper accounts saying that Carnera called on some friends in Atlanta on his way from New York to Maine, and also by reports that he is very anxious to fight Max Baer again. It is true, too, that the Italian's features are not those which are usually associated with the study of higher mathematics or literature.

To base a very definite opinion of a man on such a second-hand evidence is like trying to read character in the face of an election poster.

Primo Quick to Learn.

To speak with Carnera, in English, which is a foreign language to him, and to hear his quick and ready replies, give you a hint that there is something slightly wrong with the public impression about his intellect. The writer has several college friends who are supposed to have some of the world's sufficient supply of brains. They went to Italy, stopped at a hotel in a small town, and told the clerk, in Italian, that they wanted to send out some clothes to be cleaned and pressed.

The clerk looked puzzled for a moment. Then he answered: "Yes, sir. Vanilla or chocolate?" I think Primo does better than that.

Carnera has not gone to school or hired a professor in order to learn English, yet he speaks it very well and is exceptionally quick to grasp ideas and to come back with intelligent comments on them. Naturally he would get a bit of the worst of it in a wordy spar with Baer, but so would any American fighter. Baer is the worst of em all.

While the lawyers were fighting over Primo's share of the championship purse, Primo had already sent the dough to Italy. That isn't so dumb. Even the U. S. government can't get any money out of Italy.

He looked cool-cool in the ring when he kept setting up after each knockdown without taking a count, but I defy you to put any member of the tennis committee in charge of our Davis Cup team has made a mistake now and then, but nothing to compare with the blunder made by the Japanese Davis Cup team officials. They had a high ranking world-recognized player in Jiro Satoh, who was seriously ill and wished to leave the boat at Singapore. He was ordered to continue on the ship to Europe, as it was felt that funds could not be wasted by returning an ailing tennis player to Japan. While the ship was at sea the great tragedy of Davis Cup tennis took place, the disappearance of Japan's finest player.

The Japanese also lost one of their greatest woman players, Sanae Okada, who as the fiancée of Saich announced her retirement from tennis as a protest against the tennis association.

Upsets At Seabright Tourney Mark Downfall Of Seeded Stars

Seabright, N. J., July 25 (AP).—The inevitable tumbling of seeded stars was well under way today as the 47th annual battle for the prized Seabright tennis bowls reached the quarter final stage.

Three of the brightest of the game's young hopefuls fell by the wayside in the second round of the men's play yesterday and one veteran of women's play, Mrs. John Van Ryn, the former Margorie Gladman, seeded fifth, was eliminated by Dorothy Andrus, of Stamford, Conn., 3-6, 6-4, 6-0.

Young Frankie Parker, 18 year-old Lawrenceville student, seeded No. 2, was upset 6-2, 6-4 by Wilmer Hines, of Columbia, S. C. Gene Mako, national collegiate champion from Los Angeles, seeded 7th, fell before John McMillard, of Fort Worth, 6-1, 2-6, 6-4, and Donald Budge, highly touted Oakland, Cal., youth, seeded 8th, lost to heavy hitting Henry Prusoff, of Seattle, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4.

The remainder of the seeded list remained intact for the round of eight today.

District Golf Tilt Will Start on Aug. 9

Any amateur golfer residing within a 15 mile radius of the City of Albany is eligible to compete in the Capital District Amateur Golf Championship, that will be held at the Shaker Ridge Country Club, Loudonville, which is within a few miles of Albany, August 9, 10, 11 and 12.

The entire field will play 18 holes of medal play on Thursday, August 9, and those players making the 32 lowest scores in the qualifying round will qualify for the championship, which will be decided by 18 hole match play, with the final round by 36 hole match play. The third, fourth, fifth and sixth sixteen players in the qualifying round, as well as the beaten sixteen in the championship division will continue at Shaker Ridge for prizes.

The club house and grounds of the Shaker Ridge Country club will be open to contestants on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday previous to the tournament.

Dier All Stars Halt 7th Ward Dems 9-8

Last evening at Block Park the Dier All Stars halted the 7th Ward Dem's rally just in time to take the game, 9-8.

Cullen started on the slab for the Dems but was relieved by Tod Uhl. Koslowski was on the receiving end. Harry Geisler hurried for the Diers and Wenzel worked behind the platter.

The All Stars collected 16 hits. W. Gadd had a perfect evening with four hits out of four trips to the plate. The Dem's got eight hits off Geisler.

Thursday night at Block Park the North Rondout A. C. will take on the Dier All Stars who have already dropped a game to the A. C. This time the Stars will be out for a win.

Friesel Will Race At Williams Lake Sunday

Additional color has been added to the Water Carnival to be held at Williams Lake next Sunday by the entry of Paul Friesel, newly crowned national A. A. U. junior champion in the 220 yard breast stroke. Only two weeks ago, Friesel, who hails from the Brooklyn Dragon Swimming Club, swam a sensational race to win his first National championship over the fifty yard course in Zach's Bay at Jones Beach State Park.

Friesel, who was more than 10 yards behind the leader in the above race at the half way mark, had been using the orthodox style breast stroke. He then began using the new style breast stroke with the above-water recovery of the arms, and at once began to gain. On the home stretch he had the 25,000 spectators in a frenzy as he overtook the leader and won by five yards.

Besides Friesel, there have already entered the following stars: John Wicklund, Lester Kaplan and Lee Rosenfield of the Brooklyn Dragon Club in an attempt to shatter the world's record in the 300 yard medley relay and Len Carney, Stanley Dudek, and Johnnie Zachonick, who placed first, second and third, in the recent metropolitan diving championship event.

Besides the swimming races and the diving meet, there will be a demonstration in life saving and a series of clown acts which promise to keep the spectators laughing.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

(By The Associated Press.)

Hartford, Conn.—Bat Battalino, 138-7, Hartford, outpointed Jackie Davis, 140, Cleveland (10).

THE Spotlight BY GRANTLAND RICE

Maryland Ash.

After a somewhat slow and halting start, James Emory Fox has at least one eye focussed on Babe Ruth's home run record for a season.

With a trifle more than two months left, Fox started the week moving up to the half way mark at 34, and a season record, when he was to be safe in big league play, is at least being threatened.

It was a Maryland slugger that set the old mark and it is now a Maryland slugger, the Sudlersville Swiper, who is in hot pursuit.

There seems to be a fair amount of explosive stuff in a Maryland slugger. If you recall the details, Home Run Baker, the Trappe Terror, another Maryland entry, back in the days when eleven home runs was enough to lead the league.

With Ruth, Fox and Baker, Maryland can lay claim to three of the greatest that ever sent a fast one or a curve spinning from the park. The Babe has done well enough when you consider his age and previous length of service, plus the number of ball games he has missed. He there is only an outside chance that he will be among the first five or six home run hitters when the 1934 race is over and the total count is in.

Another Tribute.

Sensing in advance the spiking of baseball's mightiest gun, a correspondent reads in the following:

To Babe's Successor.

The crash that once was heard around the world is silent now, and in its place there starts Some bold intruder with his flags unfurled . . . An alien who would occupy our hearts, But stop! Before you take your place out there Where nimble foot and steel-like arm held sway Remember this . . . that Fate upon a dare Made just one Ruth . . . then threw the mould away.

At night when bygone ghosts ascend the hill To hold their rendezvous on star-swept field, They reverently discuss the greatest thrill . . . The gesture that made proud Chicago yield. They talk of records are each ghost dearest: Of those in need who always sought his hand, His good deeds are emblazoned in their hearts . . . His faults, if any, written in the sand.

And so, unless you're geared to meet the call That leaps from frenzied throats in wild acclaim; Unless your bat can crash the spinning ball And lift your slipping teammates game by game . . . You'll find the going rough, though fandom's fair And greets each new-born hero to the fray. So Courage, Lad! The Fates upon a dare Made just one Ruth . . . then threw the mould away.

—Howard Herz.

A Golf Suggestion.

Dear Sir: Here is a suggestion for an ideal green at the finisher hole—an underground passage from the front of the green to the locker room. After thousands of rounds of golf I have only twice walked off a last green without pulling my cap down over my face or slinking around a hedge or something to hide myself. The same thing has happened to more than a million others.

C. B. K.

What about those who like to start in at the green's edge telling me how they should have had an 83 instead of the 109 that happened to break out?

Records, apparently, are also a matter of climate and track conditions to an abnormal degree. Both Lovelock and Bonthron have been about seconds faster under U. S. skies than either has ever shown under English heavens. To have Lovelock take Bonthron in something like a 4.14 mile upset all the more. You might call it "sea legs" or something else, but Lovelock had the same sealess a year ago in the Princeton race.

North Rondout Socials Booked For Saugerties Game Saturday

Manager Jimmy DeCicco will take his North Rondout Social Club to Saugerties Saturday for a game with the Washington Hook and Ladder Company nine. The contest is scheduled for 3 p. m. at the Athletic Field in the village and will feature the program commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the fire company.

The Hooks will use their regular lineup, strengthened by the addition of Ted Fraleigh, former Schryver All Star pitcher, and Benny Benjamin, star backstop of Saugerties, who will receive his slants.

The roster of the northern Ulster county club is as follows: Swart, Lahand, Benjamin, Cooke, Boots, Terwilliger, Robinson and Fraleigh. On the players' list of the Social Club are Jack Williams, Joe Manello and Gus Wiedemann, pitchers; Bill Freeman, for heavyweight champion of the New York State National Guard, and J. Tomasecki, catchers; Phil Komosa, 1b; Earl Mitchell, 2b; L. Nardi, ss; J. Turk, 3b; F. Berardi, lf; C. Tiano, cf; R. Williams, rf; L. Komosa and J. DeCicco, reserves.

Favorites in the match seem to be the Socials because of their 3-1 victory over Jack Clafr's Marylanders last Sunday in a hard-fought game at Hasbrouck Park. However, there are a lot of backers also for the Ulster county club as follows: Swart, Lahand, Benjamin, Cooke, Boots, properly celebrate the anniversary.

Mayflowers Blank U. P. A. 9-0 In Grocers Picnic Feature

Last evening at Hasbrouck Park, Off Van Buren, 2; off Embree, 2; Colonel Jack Clair's Mayflowers crashed through in great shape. With Dewey Van Buren on the mound, allowing only five hits, they took the U. P. A. tossers into camp by a 9-0 shut-out.

The game was the climax to the U. P. A. picnic and field meet and was played before the largest crowd ever gathered at the park.

Ralph Williams hit three times out of four, including a double and two singles. Ad Stumpf did the heavy hitting with a double and a homer.

Embree was on the mound for the U. P. A. and was touched for no less than 10 hits.

Cincinnati Reds May Make Some Changes

Cincinnati, July 25 (AP).—The management wouldn't say no and wouldn't say yes, but rumor, backed up by published reports, persisted that that are the week is out, there will be major changes in the lineup of the cellar-digging Cincinnati Reds.

Confirmation was gained on the point—that Alex Kampouris, second-sacker of the Sacramento Club of the Pacific Coast League had been purchased.

From sources close to the Reds management came word that O'Farrell would step down as player-manager and would be replaced by Charles Dreesen, former star sacker for the team, who since 1932 has piloted the Nashville club of the Southern Association.

The Reds return Saturday from a month's road tour.

Los Angeles—Tony Cantale, 194, Tampa, Fla., stopped Al North, 194, Burbank, Cal., (5).

Portland Ore.—Tiger Jack Fox, 178, Terre Haute, Ind., stopped Al North, 175, Reno, Nevada.

Fort Worth, Tex.—Johnny Fox, 157, Dallas, outpointed Earl Trammell, 154, Fort Worth (10). Bobby Burns, 125, Memphis, outpointed Battling DeGado, 125, St. Louis (10).

Repairing Public Parking Grounds

Work of repairing the public parking grounds in the rear of the court house is being carried on under the direction of the Board of Public Works of the city. The grounds have been scarified and rolled and some oil has been spread to eliminate the dust but due to the fact that a number of cars were parked early Sunday morning in the park it was impossible to complete the outfitting. Next Sunday when the park is vacated the work will be completed.

This work was requested by the Uptown Merchants Association who requested that the City clarify and roll the park and the County Superintendent of Highways finish the job. The county refused to do some of the work and consequently the work has all been undertaken on the part of the city. The work will be appreciated by the residents of the county who use the parking grounds.

Picnic Postponed.

The annual picnic of the Spring Street Lutheran Church scheduled for today was postponed on account of cloudy weather this morning. It will be held Thursday at Hasbrouck Park. If weather conditions interfere tomorrow, the picnic will be held in the basement of the church.

Berlin, July 25 (AP)—Chancellor Hitler's blackshirted Schutz Staffel organization, a set of crack troops created primarily to act as his bodyguards, was separated officially today from the brown-shirted Nazi storm troops and made an independent organization.

Bethany Picnic Postponed

At a meeting of the picnic committee of Bethany Sunday school it was decided to postpone the picnic planned for Friday, July 27, until August 10. This action was taken because of the death of Dr. Lucas Boeve, whose wholehearted and tireless ministry was felt in a large way by Bethany Mission.

Terry Movie Star For Oil Company

Another star of the sports world, Terry, who last night won the "Terry" picture, first baseman and pitcher of the world champion New York Giants made his screen debut in "Terry" before an enthusiastic audience of Esso service station dealers at the Governor Clinton Hotel in Kingston.

Terry proved himself as adept at facing the camera and the microphone as he is at facing the batter in the big league ball park. If he felt nervous during the making of his first picture, he didn't show it as he told Esso dealers how running a service station business calls for the same "leadership" as running a championship baseball team.

The "Giants" manager was applauded vigorously at the conclusion of his screen appearance. The meeting was the most successful of its kind ever held in this area, according to F. B. Murray, Esso manager of the Colonial Esso Oil Co. More than 90 attended, including Esso dealers from Kingston, Ellenville, Saugerties. Following the Terry picture which was shown by M. F. Kinney, Mr. Kinney said that the primary purpose of the meeting was to show Esso dealers the feature-length talking picture, "At the Esso Sign," with a view to helping them develop new business in their communities.

Farm Administration Still Hopes For Plan

For Increasing Milk Producers' Prices in Northeastern States Without Increasing The Consumer's Burden.

Washington, July 25 (AP)—Undaunted by numerous obstacles, the farm administration still had hope today, a plan could be evolved for increasing milk producers' prices in the northeastern states, without increasing the consumer's burden.

The chief obstacle in the farm administration's view, lies in a prospective inability on the part of the milk control authorities of the several states to agree upon a single regional plan to cover New England, New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, such as the one the administration has been weighing for several weeks.

The whole object of the regional plan is to remove the difficulty of enforcing price regulations in an area where there is a considerable interstate traffic in the product, and to provide thereby a stabilization of prices for the whole region.

The administration indicated that if the states want federal aid in enforcing price regulations, the next move is up to them. There will be no attempt to force a federal regional control plan upon them, one administration spokesman said. Because of the difficulties it has encountered in dealing with some of the milk control authorities individually, the administration would like to see the states in agreement among themselves before federal aid is extended for a regional plan.

At the same time the administration made it plain it would be glad to meet with any or all of the milk control authorities, and that it felt some solution of their problems could be worked out to the satisfaction of all.

A regional milk control arrangement for the northeastern states was mentioned as early as the spring of 1933, before the New York state milk control measure, first of a long series adopted by dairying states, became law. It was then proposed in the New York Senate by Senator

Thomas C. Desmond, who said he foresaw difficulties for interstate control.

One regional control plan was worked out by Dr. Clyde H. King as chief of the dairy division of the AAA, an office from which he has since resigned. Dr. King said the farm administration put the important milksheds of the country into 19 areas for regional control by local, regional and federal control of farms.

Some of the milk control authorities, the farm administration said, insist they need federal aid in enforcing their regulations, and at the same time fear federal intervention may mean the loss of some of their rights.

Other difficulties which the administration said were confronting regional control lay in health regulations in the large marketing centers and in the wide differences between the types of markets served by the same group of states.
